“From Portrush to Tramore & back by a Devious Route” by Roger Joanes

Roger Joanes, a frequent visitor to Ireland since 1959, presents images taken between the mid-1950's and the 1970's by Graham Hoare and Chris Gammell. Both photographers made many visits to Ireland and viewed the railways through the eyes of professional railwaymen. The outward journey follows the Derry Central via Magherafelt, later visiting Clones, the Cavan & Leitrim, Mullingar, Streamstown, Banagher, Ballylinan and New Ross. We return via the coast, via Rosslare, Dublin Harcourt Street, Tullow, the Hill of Howth tram, the Warrenpoint line and Belfast. These quality images give a superb overview of Irish railways of the day, informed by Roger's knowledgeable commentary.

19.00 Thursday 12 Nov 2020 “Cork – Limerick Junction 30 Years ago” by Ken Fox

Irish Rail driver and railway enthusiast, Ken Fox, looks back to his younger railway days based in Cork in the late 80's and early 90's. Starting at Cork loco shed and yard, his journey takes us along the line to Limerick Junction showing a range of loco types on passenger and freight workings, plus RPSI specials and the signalling of the day. Learn about the activities of the (then) Great Southern Railway Preservation Society at Mallow including some intriguing vehicles such as the butter wagon converted for tunnel inspection! Ken provides a terrific insight into the railway of the time.

19.00 Thursday 10 Dec 2020 “With Lance King in Ulster” by Leslie McAllister + London Area AGM

London Area Committee member, Leslie McAllister, pays a further tribute to our late founder Chairman, Lance King, with Lance's photographs taken in the North of Ireland in the last years of steam. The 1960s saw a halving of Ulster's railway mileage, but not before Lance faithfully recorded the Great Northern route to Derry; the Warrenpoint Branch; steam hauled passenger and goods trains on both the GNR and NCC main lines; daily steam suburban trains into Belfast and the last vestiges of the Donegal narrow gauge lines. 2020 marks fifty years since the end of mainline steam traction in Northern Ireland and Leslie will mark that anniversary by following Lance as he recorded the famous Stone Trains helping to build a motorway. A heady mixture of nostalgia!

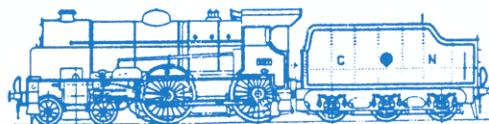

followed by the London Area AGM at 21.00

Please note that the usual IRRS sales stands at the Warley National Model Railway Exhibition and at SCALEFORUM and SCALEFOUR NORTH have been cancelled this season due to Covid-19

19.00 Thursday 21 Jan 2021 "Irish Ambulance Trains of the Great War" by Charles Friel

Irish railway preservationist, photographer, and author, Charles P Friel brings us his researches into No 13 Ambulance Train, provided by the GNR(I) and No 14 Ambulance Train, provided by the GSWR. The talk includes details of the vehicles involved and their adaptation using many rarely (if ever) seen photographs and drawings as well as Charles' researches into the trains' hitherto almost-unknown movements. The talk includes details of how the vehicles were used back in 'civvie street', including some reused in a World War II Ambulance Train.

19.00 Thursday 18 Feb 2021

"Railways throughout Munster in the 60's & 70's" – a Film Show by Ciarán Cooney

IRRS Photo-Archivist, Ciarán Cooney, presents a feast of unique films by the late Joe St Leger. From Mallow and rare glimpses of the Sugar Factory, we sample Cork mainline workings ranging from new Supertrain MkII stock to magnesite and loose-coupled goods trains. Then to the Cork City goods-line, GM and Metrovick diesels on summer excursions to Youghal, Sulzer-hauled ballast operations, beet specials, Tivoli oil flows, traditional goods trains serving Newcastle West and Castleisland, a PWD steam-crane plugging the 'bridge gap' at Abbeyfeale. Finally the development of the freight-only Ballinacourty branch, including the factory 'opening' train and the seldom photographed Deutz engine on lifting-trains. Plus a bonus film about the Loughrea branch.

19.00 Thursday 18 Mar 2021 "UTA/NIR Spoil Trains of 1966-70" by Joe Cassells

The UTA/NIR Spoil Trains were the last great challenge for Irish steam. Over 3½ years, WT Class 2-6-4T locos operated 7600 trains carrying over 4m tons of spoil from Magheramorne to Greencastle. Lifetime recorder of the railway scene, Joe Cassells, keenly observed the operation but now using previously unavailable information, he has produced the definitive description of it - its conception, its planning, and day-to-day activity. There is a special focus on the locomotives and enginemmen but through word and photos, Joe gives us a full insight to this impressively successful project.

19.00 Thursday 22 Apr 2021 "Rails through Connemara" by Jon Beaumont

Lifetime enthusiast, preservationist and author, Jon Beaumont, draws from his recent book about the life and times of the shortlived Galway-Clifden line, open from 1895-1935, setting it in the economic and social circumstances of the time. The line was opened to support (abortive) plans for a major fishing industry and a transatlantic shipping terminal at Clifden. Compounded by the burning down of the railway hotel at Recess in the 'Troubles', the line struggled to an early demise, even though it had stimulated early development of a local tourist industry. Jon will show many rare photos.
